STARTING PAGES

background : #F3F3F3

The login page is plain and simple. It has a converse look of a grey scale. The page will take anything really. It is designed to be simple and for anyone to use it. If you input a number it will not allow you to sign in.

After you input your username you will have to press the 'login' button. When you press the button it will direct you to the selection window.

The selection window of this program will show three buttons, one for the login page, ai page , and the notepad window. This will also have a label/text at the top of the window to give direction to the user for easier use.

To get to different windows you will press the buttons that are labeled and they will direct you to the correct place that you want.

AI PAGE

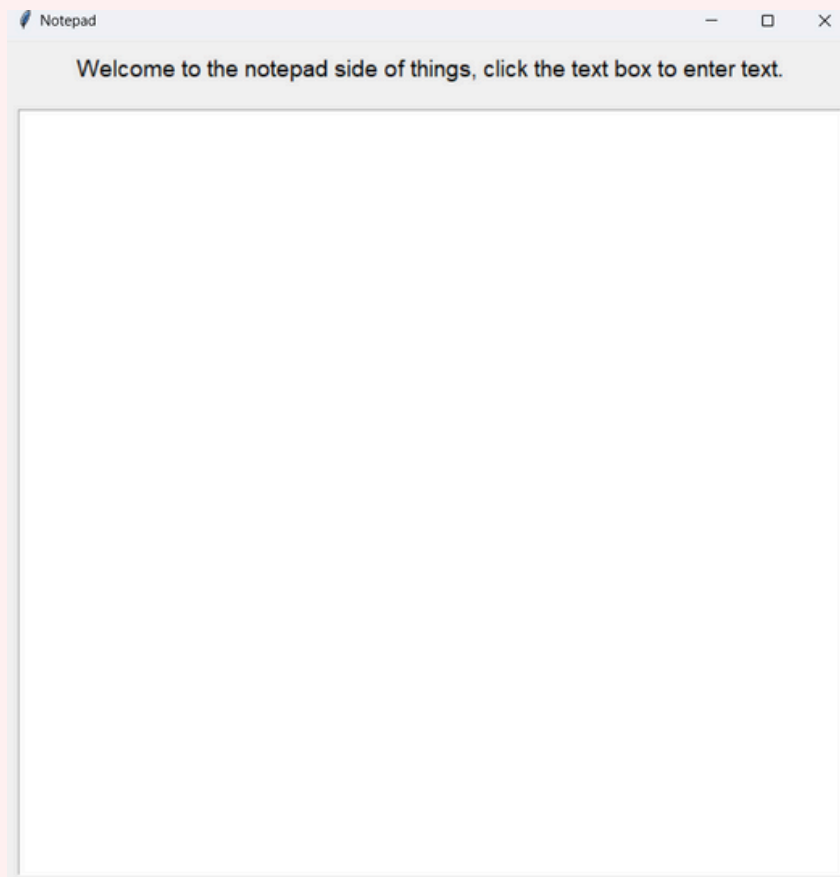

The AI page, is simple. It has the rickroll guy, the decision to do this was complicated and yet simple since AI creation is beyond loggyblud creator's skill sets. So just close the window after your done

But if you want to check out something you can click this link to go to an website for AI.

NOTEPAD

The notepad window of this program, the background color is the same as the login screen color. We have a label at the top of the box, to give direction to the user. The window has yet to have a save function because of the technicality of this piece. More will be discussed on this in the validation testing document.
